CRISIS PREPAREDNESS PROGRAM

Guatemala, October 11 – 14, 2011

Hosted by: Superintendencia de Bancos, Guatemala
Organized by the Toronto Leadership Centre in partnership with the World Bank

Objectives

The Program is designed to provide participants with the opportunity to practice the roles that monetary policy makers in central banks, supervisory/regulatory authorities and deposit insurance corporations play in managing a cross-border crisis arising from problems in a potentially systemic financial institution. The case studies and computer-simulated exercises will explore how central bankers, supervisors and deposit insurers co-ordinate with each other, and with other authorities internationally, during a crisis.

The crisis simulation exercise is designed to provide participants with the opportunity to practice dealing with some of the challenges of domestic and cross-border coordination in the management of a potentially systemic financial crisis involving cross-border banking groups. This includes the coordination of assessment and decision-making within and between national authorities, and the use of measures that authorities could deploy in a crisis.

In a simulated environment, the participants will be able to (i) practise using processes of contingency planning and dealing with failing banks; (ii) coordinate with supervisors, central banks and deposit insurers and with other authorities nationally and internationally in a crisis; and (iii) deal with systemic consequences of a bank failure. At the end of the Program, participants will be able to examine the critical components of a crisis preparedness/contingency planning guide in accordance to international best practices.

Target Group

The Program is designed for mid to senior level supervisors and regulators with responsibility for managing financial stability, financial surveillance and supervision of banking institutions, and central bankers involved in monetary policy and operations. The program is also highly relevant to staff of deposit insurance corporations. This program will be conducted in Spanish.
